GUAR MARKET SNAPSHOT : Week of November 10th , 2025

As reported by the Oil industryThe Russia-Ukraine war rages on, with Ukraine's drone attacks temporarily halting oil loadings in Russia's largest Black Sea port, however, even such a high-impact event was only able to recoup the past days' losses Oil bulls' sentiment was dampened by this week's monthly reports from the IEA and OPEC, particularly with the latter jumping on the 2026 oversupply bandwagon after months of predicting a supply deficit. Brent Crude closed at around US$64/- at the same level it opened at the beginning of the week and likewise WTI closed at around US$60/- at the same levels as it opened for the corresponding period.

The price movement since April 1st 2025 till date was as follows

The crop arrival at the moment around 45000 bags per day

The market rates softened in view of the new crop arrival pressure. At the moment the prices have breached the Rs.90/Kg support levels and it seems that the market is still trying to find a groove. Lack of any outcome in the US Tariffs talks has started weighing on the market.

The demand from the food and oil drilling sectors is spread out with no spike in the demand pattern but there has definitely been a gradual overall increase.

Container availability is still difficult. Sailings have become more and more erratic. In the monsoons we may see many blank / revised sailing schedules. In view of the delays in shipments we suggest to plan your purchases and shipment well in advance and with enough safety margin.

Nothing can be forecasted about the Guar market for sure. The market is controlled by speculators/traders.
