GUAR MARKET SNAPSHOT : Week of October 5th 2026

As reported by the Oil industry.. Oil prices were nearing the $110 per barrel mark amidst a deteriorating security situation in Saudi Arabia and Iran hitting at least one transiting tanker in the Hormuz every day for the past three weeks. Whilst news of 'productive discussions' have lowered ICE Brent ... all eyes will be on Hurricane Isaias this weekend, with the oil markets seeking to gauge potential damages. Brent Crude is trading at around US$ 104/- up from around US$102/- at the beginning of the week. WTI is trading at around US$92/- almost at the same level as the beginning of the week for the corresponding period.

CROP ARRIVALS

The current crop arrivals is averaging around 25000 bags

As can be seen from the graph the prices shot up dramatically during the last week. The increase was almost 12% as compared to the opening. The reports on the Guar yield are not very encouraging. Simultaneously, we are also witnessing a spike in the number of enquiries over the past week from both the food and the drilling sector.

The shipping freight continues on the higher side. The shipping rates are highly volatile as shipping lines are imposing several surcharges in view of the ongoing situation in the Iran US war.

Shipments from India to almost all sectors have been effected as vessels of all shipping lines are unable to meet their schedules. One can expect some delays in the sailing and the delivery times as shipping lines are still working on the sailing plans which were disrupted due to the war. The inventory situation also is very poor as container availability is restricted..

Nothing can be forecasted about the Guar market for sure. The market is controlled by speculators/traders.
